Finishing Options For Your Portraits

Drymounting and protective coatings are a recommended step in preserving your portrait and preparing it for display. Our protective coatings are either a smooth liquid coating or a lightly textured laminate. Each one provides a water resistant shield from environmental irritants including ultraviolet light which causes colors to fade with time. A protective coating will add many years to the life of your portrait and allow you to frame your print without the need for glass.

Gallery Wrap Canvas Mounting places your print onto a textured artists canvas and give a photograph a very painterly appearance. Gallery wrapped prints are stretched over a wooden frame and the image is wrapped around the outside of the frame. A gallery wrapped print included a protective coating.

A gallery wrapped print can be displayed beautifully with no need from additional framing, however you can also add a frame to further enhance your artwork and your home décor.
